Specializations

Digital Film and Television Production

Prepares students for careers in program creation, writing, and the creative applications of video and audio technology.

Management and Strategy

Prepares students to enter the profession through positions in audience research analytics, sales, and marketing and promotion. Focuses on the theories, methods and techniques used to play, produce and distribute audio and video programs and messages; personnel and facilities management; marketing and distribution; media regulations, law and policy; and principles of broadcast technology.

Media and Society

Prepares individuals to work in media organizations and those organizations that use electronic media, social media, and emerging technologies such as political campaigns, government, education, and business. The specialization allows for several combinations of courses to fulfill degree requirements.

Students can also use the communication skills they acquire to pursue graduate degrees. Students majoring in telecommunication participate in the university’s six broadcast stations, other on campus facilities such as the Gator Network and elective internships throughout the world.

Academic Learning Compact

The major in telecommunication, which includes specializations in management, media and society, and digital film and television production, prepares students to understand the means of communicating with diverse audiences and to use the tools of information gathering and storytelling to communicate with those audiences through electronic media such as video, audio and interactive technologies. Through study and practical application, students gain knowledge of the history, norms and legal and ethical milieu of the telecommunication professions. Students learn to locate and use reference tools and to demonstrate the ability to communicate independent, critical perspectives.

Before Graduating Students Must

- Achieve a passing score of 70% on your student portfolio, which will be evaluated by faculty members and/or professionals in each specialty.
- Complete requirements for the baccalaureate degree, as determined by faculty.
