

LEGAL HISTORY

The history department fosters a learning experience that stands apart from newer modes of instruction at large universities. Amid the shift to larger classes, televised lectures and machine-gradable exams, history faculty have chosen to follow a more traditional path. The department's emphasis on small classes, analytical reading, lively debate, and interpretative writing offers committed students unique rewards. It also comes with high expectations.

Curriculum

- Combination Degrees
- History
- History Minor
- Legal History Certificate

The history major focuses on the development of three related skill sets critical to professional success in today's complex world:

WRITING

History is a writing-intensive discipline. Although assignments vary by course, students will be taught a set of critical skills and research techniques that will help them gather and analyze sources and then marshal the evidence in the presentation of coherent historical arguments.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS

In the typical upper-division course, students read an average of 75 to 125 pages each week. Students will be expected to synthesize the material effectively and come to class prepared to discuss the readings.

ORAL COMMUNICATION

Rather than merely recounting facts from readings and lectures, students will develop their own interpretations of historical events and ideas and discuss them with their peers and professor. They will be expected to contribute actively in the classroom and will on occasion lead discussions and give short reports.

Coursework for the Major

Required Coursework

All history majors must complete a minimum of 36 credits in history with minimum grades of C. Majors must take a minimum of 21 credits of history at UF. History majors may enroll in a maximum of three history courses per semester.

Requirements include:

- HIS 3942, a methodological introduction to the study of history, should be taken in the first year in the major and it must be taken no later than Semester 5.
- AMH 4930 / AFH 4930 / ASH 4930 / EUH 4930 / HIS 4930 / LAH 4930 / WOH 4930 is the capstone course of the major and normally taken in the senior year, although students who plan to write an honors thesis are encouraged to take the course as juniors. In this seminar, students produce a substantial research paper based on primary source research. Enrollment in the research seminar is restricted to majors. The History Research Seminar must be taken at UF.
- 30 additional credits of history courses:
 - at least 21 of the 30 credits must be at the 3000/4000 level
 - At least 9 credits (three courses) in American history (AMH) and European history (EUH), with at least one course in AMH, one course in EUH, and one course in AMH or EUH
 - At least 9 credits (three courses) in AFH, ASH, LAH, or WOH, with a maximum of two courses under any one prefix.
 - The history research seminar may count toward the regional distribution, depending on the prefix of the course taken (AFH, AMH, ASH, EUH, LAH, or WOH).
- To successfully complete the specialization in Legal History, students are required to complete 9 credits, which will apply to the requirements above.
 - One course must be selected from Group A and one course must be selected from the courses listed in Group B. The third course may be selected from either Group A or B. Students must pass each course taken for the specialization with a grade of C or higher.

LAH 3931	Special Topics in Latin American History (Crime and Criminality in the Americas)
WOH 3205	History of Human Rights
Group A or Group B course ¹		3
Total Credits		9

In addition to these courses, the undergraduate coordinator may authorize substitute courses.

Prior to graduating, history majors complete an online exit survey.

Only exam (AICE, AP, CLEP, or IB) credits with course equivalencies for UF courses count toward the requirements for the major and then only at the 2000 level. AMH L000, EUH L000, HIS L000, and WOH L000 do not count toward the major.

Recommended Coursework

Majors are encouraged, but not required, to take a total of nine credits at the introductory 2000 level, including one course in American history (AMH), one course in European history (EUH), and one course in African, Asian, Latin American, or World history (AFH, ASH, LAH, WOH courses).

COMBINATION DEGREE PROGRAM

Majors who are interested in advanced training are encouraged to consider the 4/1 combination degree program.

More Info (<http://history.ufl.edu/undergraduate-studies/41-program/>)

RESEARCH

Majors are encouraged to consider advanced research opportunities in history. The department places special emphasis on participation in the history honors program.

Critical Tracking

Critical Tracking records each student's progress in courses that are required for entry to each major. Please note the critical-tracking requirements below on a per-semester basis.

For degree requirements outside of the major, refer to CLAS Degree Requirements: Structure of a CLAS Degree.

Equivalent critical-tracking courses as determined by the State of Florida Common Course Prerequisites (<https://cpm.flvc.org/advance-search/>) may be used for transfer students.

Students are advised to take HIS 3942 in their first year as a history major, and it must be taken no later than Semester 5.

Semester 1

- 2.0 UF GPA required

Semester 2

- Complete 1 history course at the 2000 level or above
- 2.0 UF GPA required

Semesters 3-4

- Complete 1 history course at the 3000 level or above with a 2.5 critical-tracking GPA (this course may be a course from Group A or B if it is passed with a 2.0 GPA or above)
- 2.5 GPA in critical-tracking history courses
- 2.0 UF GPA required

Semesters 5-6

- Complete 1 history course at the 3000 level or above with a 2.5 critical-tracking GPA (this course may be a course from Group A or B if it is passed with a 2.0 GPA or above)
- 2.5 GPA in critical-tracking history courses
- 2.0 UF GPA required

Semesters 7-8

- By the end of semester 8, students seeking the Legal History Specialization must have completed 3 courses toward the specialization (either from the approved list or with the approval of the undergraduate coordinator) as follows: 1 from Group A, 1 from Group B, and 1 from either Group A or B with a 2.0 GPA or higher
- 2.5 GPA in critical-tracking history courses
- 2.0 UF GPA required

Model Semester Plan

Students are expected to complete the Writing Requirement while in the process of taking the courses below. Students are also expected to complete the General Education International (GE-N) and Diversity (GE-D) requirements concurrently with another General Education requirement (typically, GE-C, H, or S).

To remain on track, students must complete the appropriate critical-tracking courses, which appear in bold. These courses must be completed by the terms as listed above in the Critical Tracking criteria.

This semester plan represents an example progression through the major. Actual courses and course order may be different depending on the student's academic record and scheduling availability of courses. Prerequisites still apply.

Academic Learning Compact

The History major exposes students to key issues in the history of the United States, Europe and areas of Africa, Asia, and Latin America. Students will develop the critical interpretative skills needed to assess both primary and secondary sources in the complex task of thinking about the past. Students will master a set of research skills that help them develop their own historical arguments. Significant emphasis is laid on effective written communication reflected in the cogency of arguments and use of evidence.

Before Graduating Students Must

- Complete the distribution requirements of the major (6 credits in AMH, 6 credits EUH, 6 credits in AFH, ASH or LAH) with minimum grades of C, as graded by department rubric.
- Complete HIS 3942 and HIS 4930 with minimum grades of C, as graded by department rubric.
- Complete 35 credits in history, including at least 26 at the 3000/4000 level, and all with minimum grades of C, as graded by department rubric.
- Complete requirements for the baccalaureate degree, as determined by faculty.

Students in the Major Will Learn to

Student Learning Outcomes | SLOs

Content

1. Acquire and apply basic research skills learned through use of print and electronic resources of the library and web.

Critical Thinking

2. Critically assess and interpret primary and secondary sources.
3. Identify a historical research topic related to the focus of the research seminar, develop knowledge of the topic through research, and create historical arguments using evidence effectively with clear purpose.

Communication

4. Produce an effectively written analytical research paper based in research of primary sources, framed within the secondary literature and offering a coherent historical argument supported by evidence.
