SPECIAL EDUCATION, SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGY AND EARLY CHILDHOOD STUDIES DEPARTMENT

Director: Holly Lane

The School of Special Education, School Psychology, and Early Childhood Studies offers online and face-to-face programs leading to the Master of Education (M.Ed., non-thesis), Master of Arts in Education (M.A.E., thesis), Specialist in Education (Ed.S.), Doctor of Education (Ed.D.), and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degrees. Complete descriptions of the requirements for these degrees are provided in the General Information section of this catalog.

The School offers graduate study and research experience in 3 areas of specialization: Special Education; School Psychology; and Early Childhood Studies. Programs are accredited by the Florida Department of Education and approved by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE). The School Psychology program is approved by the NCATE and the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP). The Ph.D. program in School Psychology is accredited by the American Psychological Association (APA).
