College of Health and Human Performance

Dean: M. Reid

Research and teaching in HHP has an impact on almost every aspect of the human condition. The college’s four centers — the Florida Center for Health Promotion (http://www.hhp.ufl.edu/heb/fchp/fchp.php), Center for Exercise Science (http://apk.hhp.ufl.edu/index.php/departments-centers/center-for-exercise-science-ces), and the Eric Friedheim Tourism Institute (http://efti.hhp.ufl.edu) — as well as its three primary departments — Applied Physiology and Kinesiology (http://catalog.ufl.edu/graduate/colleges-departments/health-human-performance/applied-physiology-kinesiology), Health Education and Behavior (http://catalog.ufl.edu/graduate/colleges-departments/health-human-performance/health-education-behavior), and Tourism, Recreation, and Sport Management Department (http://catalog.ufl.edu/graduate/colleges-departments/health-human-performance/tourism-recreation-sport-management) — place the college firmly in a position to influence and improve an array of societal problems and challenges.
